

A NEW RUSSIAN IRONCLAD.

In the course of the present month the new Russian armored frigate Admiral Nakhimoff will be launched. This frigate has been constructed in the Baltic shipyard of St. Petersburg at Vassili Ostrow, and two years have been occupied in building it. The hull is composed of wood, iron and steel. All the iron materials and the external armor have been furnished by the workshops of Kolpino. The armor is nine inches thick. The Admiral Nakhimoff will have on deck four movable towers, each armed with two eight-inch guns. The engines are of 8000-horse power nominal, and these have also been constructed in Baltic workshops. The tonnage of this ship amounts to 8,000 tons. The frame of the vessel cost 2,500,000 roubles and the machinery 1,280,000 roubles. —London Mail, Oct. 9th.

Chivalrous Southern—You have offended me, and I demand satisfaction. To-morrow morning at 8 I shall meet you. I choose pistols. Commercial Traveler—All right. If I am not promptly on hand you had better begin firing away. —Boston Beacon.

Tourist—I thought some extensive improvements in Central Park had been projected? Proud New Yorker—That's so; they were on a most magnificent scale. Tourist—Why were they never carried out? Native—Oh, the rest of the country wouldn't subscribe the money.

A white man from away down South in the Okeechobee Lake region came up to Gainesville last week on business at the United States Land Office. While here he saw the first ice he had ever seen. He manifested great interest in the frigid substance, and put a half-pound lump in his pants pocket to take home to his family. He soon took it out of his pocket, however, and as he did so said: "I am afeared it will spile my terbacker."

Young Dudenthaler (whose brother-in-law has just failed)—Oh, yesh, Moses he dakes on dreadful. He valked de floor all night. He's shust gray—perfectly gray. Good-natured merchant—Tell him not to trouble himself so much. Such things will happen. Let him call a meeting of his creditors; offer 50 percent cash, and I'll use my personal influence to have it accepted. Young Dudenthaler—Fefety per shent! Fefety per shent! Vill, Moses vas feelin' pretty bad, but he vasn't so gray as all dot.

There is said to be a grocer in a certain town of Florida who splits a grain of coffee in order to give accurate measure and weight.

The Puritan, after giving general pleasure, has gone to Gen. Paine. The world may owe a man a living, but it is always best for him to go out and collect it by a little hard work.
